I despise micosoft and they are just trying to horn in on a market that it is not dominant in. I wish they were destroyed because they are ripping people off. when they charge $99/199 for an upgrade or $199/299 full software and linux viriants cost aproximately $69 and full versions of the mac os cost $129 or $69 for education something is wrong. I think the best settlement is to take windows away from them. Make it public domain and every computer company should ship their own operating system. This would spur inovation and compitition to have the best os out there. Then each company would own the hole widget like Apple Computers. Or a smaller kick in microsofts teeth would be to donate 10 billion (they do have 35 billion in cash) in all machintosh machines and software. provide training for schools that dont currently have machines. also microsoft should pay support and upgrade for the next 10 years and to prove it has abandoned its anticompetition practices. If microsoft has not satisfactorily complied they lose the rights to windows and if they do comply another 1 billion gets spred over all of the 50 states into their education programs.

Dont let them play you for the fools. They are not friends of the people.
